

Only watches marked "Water Resistant", or indicated as such, should be permitted to be exposed to moisture.

Only a LPWG authorized technician should attempt to open or service the watch including changing the battery.

Da Vinci watches featuring calendars allow the date to be advanced. This is done by pulling the stem outward halfway, then turning clockwise.

Note: Calendar setting should only be performed when the time showing is after 3 a.m. and before 9 p.m.

Some watches feature a screw down crown. Before the time of day can be set, the crown must first be released by turning it counter-clockwise. After setting, the crown should be closed by pressing in while turning it clockwise until it is completely screwed down. Doing so, will help to ensure the water resistance and function of your watch.
